YOUNG AVIATRIX AIR JAUNT ALONE

AMY JOHNSON 23 STARTS FROM CROYDON FOR AUSTRALIA AND RETURN

CROYDON, Eng.—A pretty golden-haired 23-year-old girl, Amy Johnson, by name, started at 8:04 a. m. today in a tiny moth plane on a line flight of 22,000 miles to Australia and return.

Her plane is named the "Jason" after the Grecian hero who sought the Golden Fleece. In it the English aviator, who is a member of the London Aeroplane Club, hopes to better the record of Bert Hinkler, who flew to Australia in 15 days.

Her plane carries no radio, and she will depend upon telegrams to keep in touch with home.

The aviatrix is the only woman in Great Britain to whom the air ministry has granted a ground engineer's license. Her father, J. W. Johnson, of Hull, went to Croydon to bid her farewell. He said there was no need for any anxiety about her trip.

LOCAL ELKS HOLD BIG BALLOON DANCE

FUNDS ARE TO BE USED FOR CHILDREN'S DAY THIS SUMMER

In order to raise funds for the "kid day" which the local lodge of Elks sponsor each year, a big balloon dance was held in the theatre on Wednesday evening at which a big crowd enjoyed the merriment to the full.

In the nicely decorated hall, which had been trimmed with the colors of the Order to the tunes of Vere Gould's Orchestra the dancers, took full advantage of the good floor and these included visitors from a very large area.

In the competition known as the "balloon dance" Miss B. Mackay was the successful contestant, and during the evening several step dances were given by members of the crowd which were pleasing to all.

Not the least enjoyable feature of the evening was the splendid supper served at midnight and the affair away into the early hours.

As an added attraction, and during the evening several step dances were given by members of the crowd which were pleasing to all.

MAKING HISTORY IN CANADIAN GOODS

LARGEST SHIPMENT OF HOME
LAUNDRY APPLIANCES EVER MADE IN ONE DAY

From their Hill St. Plant at Fergus Ontario, Beatty Bros. Limited shipped two solid trainloads of home laundry equipment, the largest shipment of its kind ever made in one day in the history of Canada. Three years ago this firm made history by shipping the largest trainload of hardware to Western Canada. The two trainloads left the Beatty plants on May 3rd for distribution throughout Eastern and Western Canada and were the third and fourth trainloads shipped by Beatty Bros. Limited during the past five years.

The two trainloads of Beatty washers shipped on May 3rd indicate the demand for electric washers by the women of Canada. Evidently the Beatty enjoys an enviable reputation. This reputation is very pleasing to Canadians, as this firm is Canadian throughout. Management, capital, employees, and inventions are purely Canadian. Practically every part of the Beatty washer is made in the three Beatty factories at London and Fergus, Ontario, and more than forty of the firm's machines across Canada give service to Beatty customers and dealers. The two trainloads of electric washers will be distributed in nearly every city, town and hamlet in Canada.

The two trainloads consisted of more than 4,000 Beatty washers and over 4,000 sets of Beatty laundry equipment, which are given with these washers. This labour-saving equipment will lift the burden of wash day from the backs of thousands of Canadian housewives from coast to coast.

The Beatty dealer for Wainwright is W. E. Washburn, who has received his share of the two trainloads to be delivered to his customers who buy Beatty Washers in this vicinity.

GEORGE GRAHAM MAY DRIVE LAST SPIKE

OTTAWA—The first spike in the Hudson Bay Railway was driven by the Rt. Hon. George P. Graham at the Pas in 1910, and it is a probability that Mr. Graham will drive the last spike.

Postponement of the ceremonies at the opening of the line on Bay St. James until some time in the present year. Among developments into Churchill from the Pas over a year ago and it was anticipated that the opening would be celebrated last summer, but a number of unforeseen difficulties arose and the ceremony was put off until the middle of the present year. Among developments tending to cause postponement is the opening of the new Welland Canal on July 1st.

FUNERAL OF LATE MR FRANCIS EBBERN

OLD-TIMERS CAME HERE SOME TWENTY-FOUR YEARS AGO
FROM MANITOBA

The funeral of the late Mr. Francis Ebborn, whose death was recorded last week took place on Thursday last the service being conducted by Rev. N. Whitmore at the Wainwright United church.

The deceased who passed away following several operations, was a sufferer for many years from the dread disease of cancer. He was in his 49th year and is survived by his widow and nine children, seven girls and two boys and in addition by his aged father and mother, three sisters and four brothers.

Mr. Ebborn, Sr. and his brother Harry were here from Binacarth, Man. for the funeral.

He was born in Yorkville, England and came to Manitoba with his parents at the age of seven years. Some 24 years since he came to Wainwright and settled on his farm south east of town.

For the past several years he has been given all that medical skill and knowledge could bestow to fight his complaint, but all proved without avail. The church was crowded to overflowing with sympathizers and friends and to these the pastor spoke of the glorious resurrection to which all looked forward and the happy meeting with loved ones in the Great Beyond. A couple of favorite hymns of the deceased were sung by those present.

Interment was made at Wainwright cemetery where the last offices of the church were recited by Mr. Whitmore, and the remains of his husband and father reverently laid away. Mr. Ebborn's parlors had charge of arrangements.

The pall-bearers were Messrs J. Hill, H. Jackson, C. Morrison, C. Widdowhe, H. Dunning and J. Paterson all old-time farmer friends of the family.

Among the gorgeous array of floral tributes were: The Family, Mr. & Mrs. A. McQuaker and family, Green shields U.F.A. & U.F.W.A., wreaths and sprays from Mr. & Mrs. O. Hanah, Mr. and Mrs. T. Hill and family, Mr. and Mrs. E. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. W. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. H. Frueger, Mr. and Mrs. J. Clifton and Helen, Margaret & Leslie Morrison and Mrs. J. Alexander and others.

CARD OF THANKS
We deeply appreciate the many acts of kindness shown us and the sympathy extended in our time of anxiety and bereavement, and we take this opportunity to express our sincere gratitude and thanks.
Mrs. F. Ebborn and Family

MOTHERS' DAY IS FITTINGLY HONORED

SERVICES AT THE CHURCHES
ALL HONOR MOTHERS
SUNDAY LAST

At the churches on Sunday last both morning and evening, the services were fitting for the celebration of Mother's Day, and the singing and preaching were all appropriate for the occasion.

In each instance, the morning service was mainly handled by the Sunday school children, who followed special order of service for the day. Crowded congregations were in attendance, and the mark of esteem for Mother (red or white flowers) was greatly in evidence.

The theme for the day—"The Mother-Heart of the World"—was illustrated in both song and story, and at the United church a pageant by the older girls was given a repetition at the close of the evening service.

The several classes engaged in different portions of the work entitled and altogether "Mother's Day" in Wainwright on Sunday last was one to be long remembered by parents and scholars alike.

LOCAL ODDFELLOWS ENTERTAIN OFFICERS

On Thursday evening last at their lodge hall, the members of the Encampment branch of the I.O.O.F. had an official visitor in the person of Bro. W. Middle, G.S.W. for Alberta who was accompanied by Bro. W. Taylor. Both of these gentlemen motored here from their home at Medicine Hat. They were officially welcomed by Bro. W. Huntington, G.J.W. for Alberta, and Bro. W. Bowen, D.D.G.P. for this district.

At the close of the business session the guests were entertained to a dainty lunch put on in the hall, and a real enjoyable time was spent at the gathering.

Metal fatigue at hidden imperfections in airplane motors is considered the cause of some of the few aviation crashes in which the engines fail for no apparent reason, and to detect these faults, a new magnetic "eye" has been developed.

NO FOREIGN TEXTS IN SCHOOLS OF B. C.

VICTORIA—Results of Hon. Josiah Hinchcliffe's policy of using British text books in the schools of British Columbia were announced with the issuance of the annual list of books for the school year 1930-31. Every text book in the public schools of the province will be published in Canada or Britain. All foreign texts have been eliminated. A few United States texts still remain on the list of supplementary books used for reference work and those Mr. Hinchcliffe said, were regarded as essential, as they dealt with information of United States subjects.

LOCAL WOMEN'S INST. HOLD BIRTHDAY PARTY

FIFTEENTH ANNIVERSARY NICE
LY CELEBRATED AT BIG CARD PARTY

On Saturday afternoon last, a real nice affair was staged by the ladies of the local W.I. by way of celebrating the fifteenth anniversary of the inauguration of that body in Wainwright and quite a large attendance turned out to enjoy this feature.

The proceedings opened with the regular order of business after which a novel addition was the reading of the minutes of the first meeting ever held and the roll call of the charter members of the branch.

An address of welcome was delivered by Mrs. W. Brunner, which was timely responded to by Mrs. J. Middleman this being followed by a splendid paper on the ethics of the Women's Institute and its work in general by Mrs. B. Bowerman who was the first president of the Wainwright branch.

At the close of this portion of the programme a short card party was given by Mrs. W. Huntington and Mrs. W. Clark, and Mrs. E. Sherwood beautifully played a pianoforte solo. All these items were received with applause. Mrs. J. Telford acted as accompanist for the singers.

Increasing Interest In Wainwright Field

WILL THE GAS BE PIPED TO EAST CITIES IS NOW
THE PROBLEM

(By W. A. Knowles)

Since the resumption of depth work Oasito has been making good headway. They are now down 2110 feet and coring with structure looking extremely good. The next couple of weeks or less should bring this shaft into the same horizon as other nearby producers with excellent prospects bettering the output.

Bethvian is now coring at 2180 feet on their No. 2 well, with the expectation of intercepting a productive sand, probably 175 to 200 feet. The structure being analysed looks very interesting.

Fabyan Petroleum are coring below 1800 feet with considerable gas and some oil showings. R. E. Williams is expected back from the coast shortly with an electric log which will be of great value in determining the true nature of the strata encountered will be definitely carried out.

Wainwell's No. 4 on pump, is producing around 20 barrels of crude per day for Peninsular Petroleum. It is expected work on other Wainwell locations will be inaugurated very shortly as plans have been submitted to the management in Toronto by the field force here for the development of Wainwell's other sites by cleaning the teeth now is accomplished by pressing a button with the aid of an electric toothbrush exhibited in London recently.

Housewives who live in the mountains will welcome a special oven being devised by the Colorado agricultural college for cooking in high altitudes.

GOVT ELEVATOR LOCATED AT LETHBRIDGE

OTTAWA—Increased internal rates for grain at Moose Jaw, Lethbridge and Saskatoon, will be levied by his department, Hon. James Macdonald, minister of trade and commerce, told the agriculture committee of the house of commons today. Wheat producers of Canada have nothing to gain by cutting down production. Hon. Mr. Macdonald told the committee. The committee was considering the new grain act, and the minister took advantage of the occasion to make a few comments on the grain situation.

WOULD STERILIZE ALL DEFECTIVES

H. E. SPENCER, M.P. ADVOCATE OF PROTECTION OF RACE
FROM MENTAL DISEASES

TORONTO—Addressing the Social Hygiene Council here Henry E. Spencer, U. F. A. member of parliament for Battle River, Alberta, declared he was "emphatically in favor of sterilizing mental defectives." "The law has decreed that the mentally defective may live," Mr. Spencer said, "but the balance of humanity should be granted the right to see there should be no reproduction among the incurable mental defectives."

Mr. Spencer thought the day was coming when there would be an annual examination for every man, woman and child in Canada. This, he felt, would be an excellent thing. Bad health, he said, had a definite relationship to insanity, criminality and other evils which beset mankind.

"That will suffice, I take it." "What for?" Reggie's eyebrows went up. "To prove Napper was killed there on the hill? Would you tell a jury that?"

"I should say it established a strong probability," said Chuck. "My only aunt," sighed Reggie. "And you were a judge—a good judge."

"You're an odd fellow, Fortune." Clunk frowned. "You were confident the man was killed somewhere else. Now you've found the evidence, you proceed to doubt it."

"No. I don't doubt the evidence. I always follow it. But it doesn't lead to anything."

"What more could you possibly expect?"

"Reggie looked at him with dreamy eyes. 'Well, you know I did expect a little more interest from Colonel Chairmont.'"

"Chairmont? If he heard nothing, he could have nothing to tell us."

"Yes. Accepting, that—as he was the patron of Napper, when he heard that Napper was killed at his gate instead of miles away, he might have been more interested."

"What should he say?" Clunk was annoyed. "My dear Fortune, if you have in your mind any suspicion of Chairmont, I can tell you it's preposterous."

"Yes. Fine type. I thought that. Do you know anything of his household?"

"His wife's dead. There's one son. A pleasant fellow. Some sort of artist. Etchings and woodcuts and that sort of thing. Chairmont lives alone with a few women servants and a gardener or so, all with him for years."

You can put the Chairmont household out of your mind."

"I see. Yes," Reggie murmured. "But in the morning he said that he must verify the blood, and he went to his laboratory by way of Scotland Yard. He drifted into the room of the chief of the Criminal Investigation Department, pink and dreamy."

"Reginald!" said Lomas severely. "Shed that lot of nonsense. What have you been up to now? This man in Lumsden don't know where he is."

"Well, well," Reginald boomed. "Has he found that out? Good."

"He has not. He blethers. Yesterday morning he rang up to complain that you were meddling with one of his cases and he wouldn't have it. In the evening he was on the phone again to say he was dejected obliged to you. I am not."

"One of your larger cigars is indicated," said Reggie, and took it. "Yes. Heard all about it Lomas!"

"Oh Yes and more," Lomas groaned. "It's going to be a straight case of poachers murder, isn't it?"

"I wonder," Reggie blew smoke rings. He brought out the paper on which were the finger prints of the dead man. "Tell your fellows to see if that chap is on their records."

Lomas gave the orders. "Who is the suspect?"

"He isn't exactly a suspect. He's the corpse."

"Good Gad!" Lomas gasped. "But the dead man is the village policeman. They all knew him."

"Yes. Identification, unanimous."

though casual. But he hadn't got a face.

"My dear fellow, they must know the general look of the fellow."

"Oh yes. The dead man must be the same sort of size as Chairmont Napper. His clothes were a fair fit. He may be Napper. But I don't think so. It's his hands. The dead man had been doing things with acid. That's not usual in the police force. And Napper hadn't any hobbies."

"You mean hands like a photograph?"

"Yes. It could be."

"Another—killed and put into Napper's clothes—why?"

"So that his exit shouldn't be noticed."

"Someone wanted your supposed photographer out of the way? Then the someone must be Napper himself."

"Not must. Napper either assisted or being otherwise disposed of. He produced the scrap of charred paper. Does that suggest anything?"

Lomas looked at it with a reading glass. "Bit of a pump naked child, tawny pink, part of a foreign bank-note I suppose."

"Yes. Yes. Observe the letters 'B. F.'—I suppose you've got a bank-note expert on the premises. Ask him what he makes of it, will you?"

Lomas sent it away. Then he sat back and put on his eye-glasses. "Always happy to oblige Reginald. But isn't this rather a fairy tale? You begin with a nice plain running-down case. Then by way of a guess from a bicycle lamp you turn it into a poacher's murder. Still unsatisfied you want to make the victim somebody else because he has stained fingers. And finally you produce a scrap of burnt French bank-note to prove a heaven knows what I hate to say, you, Lomas smiled. 'But it sounds to me like a masterpiece of the imagination.'"

"Oh, Lomas!" Reggie was hurt. How can you? I imagine! I haven't any 'I'm just telling, timid, after facts.'"

"What are you trying to prove?"

"I'm not. I don't want to prove any thing. Behind the cigar smoke his eyes were dark and vague. 'I'm only looking for the truth. Follows the gleam.'"

"My dear fellow!" Lomas protested. "This is fantastic. Come out of dream land. What has the burnt note to do with it?"

"I haven't the slightest idea. Reggie beamed. 'It don't make any sense. This is what's so interesting. The typographic defunct. Napper has a pet name. Colonel Chairmont. Old Clunk says he is the soul of honor. And Clunk don't like his fellow creatures too much. Chairmont lives on a primeval desert hill. And it was up there the bicycle smasher and the hypothetical poacher slow the hypothetical Napper. I went wandering around Chairmont's grounds. There was a kind of empty cottage away from the house, busy by that somebody had been burning papers. Burial bluff on the heather, the sort of stuff that mites up the chimney. And there was this bit of note. Well!'"

"As you say, it makes no sense. Your virtuous friend had been burning papers and there happened to be a French note among them. What do you want to read into it?"

"Nothing," Reggie boomed. "I'm quite peaceful myself. It is the kind of case that feels all right. If only the policeman would let it alone. But they mean to hang somebody. That's why I want the truth, Lomas."

"They won't hang anybody without evidence."

Reggie gasped. "What simple faith!"

An inspector came in and reported that the paper was certainly part of a hundred-franc note; the finger prints were not on the register of criminals."

"There you are," Lomas tossed the note and the prints. "Nothing in it. You want a new Reginald!"

Reggie stood up. "I'm going to the laboratory. Effects have caused there."

But first he went to his club and wrote a letter to Mr. Dubois of the Surete in Paris. In the morning he rung up Clunk and asked for the latest news. "I have been stimulating Kitchell," said Clunk. "The imbecile informs me that the police have a clue."

"Oh my aunt," Reggie groaned. "I agree with you. Has anything come of your investigation?"

"No. Blood is blood and oil is oil. Clunk don't handle your police. Warn me quick if anything happens."

The next morning came an answer from Paris:

"Dear Friend: Your two pieces much interest my colleagues. First, the morsel of scorched paper. It is from a counterfeit note of a hundred francs; a good forgery, but without doubt a forgery. Second, the fingerprints. They are known to us as Georges Boudard, who was arrested in 1920 for forging bonds, but evidence failed. He was not believed a Frenchman. You will understand that my colleagues will be greatly obliged if you can give information where he operates at present."

"Always—"

"No, I can't old man," Reggie murmured, and he sought the telephone again.

"The unspeakable Kitchell still has a clue," said Clunk. "I prod him in vain."

"Don't prod," Reggie shrilled.

"My dear Fortune, if you have any fresh information, you should produce it. Otherwise these incompetents must be made to proceed on the plain evidence."

"It isn't plain," said Reggie. "It's all wrong."

The telephone made queer noises. "You accept a grave responsibility in attempting to impede the inquiry."

"I know. I've had lives in my hands before this, Clunk."

"The law must take its course." Clunk was angry. "If you act outside the law I can be no party to it. You should know that."

"I do. That's why I tell you nothing Except this. You're doing wrong Clunk."

"We shall certainly not understand one another," said Clunk, and rang off. Reggie looked at the telephone in disgust. "Oh, you lawyer," he moaned.

WEEDS... the arch-enemy of Canadian Agriculture

"If my fields had been free of Wild Oats and Mustard last year," writes an Alberta farmer, "my extra crop profits would have enabled me to buy a car, two suits of clothes, redecorate my house and add a hundred dollars to my bank account. This year I'm going to clean up at least two fields."

The attitude of this Alberta farmer is commendable. If all farmers attack weeds vigorously, their efforts will be rewarded many times over in better crops, reduced costs and increased profits. To help them do this Imperial Oil Limited is publishing an interesting book which contains all the latest facts, figures and information pertaining to the weed problem.

This book—"Weed Control"—is full of constructive advice and suggestions. It explains in plain, simple language how to tackle the job of weed eradication most effectively. It has been compiled by The Honorable Duncan Marshall, former Minister of Agriculture for Alberta, and each chapter describes the experiences and processes adopted by weed authorities, experimental farms and farmers who have successfully fought weeds throughout the Dominion.

"Weed Control" is a companion volume to "Field and Farm Yards", which Imperial Oil distributed to more than 65,000 farmers in 1929. By filling in and mailing attached coupon, you will be assured of receiving your free copy.

For Wainwright Merchants Only

Being one of a series of chats with Wainwright businessmen in which they are told how they can increase their volume of sales.

Making The Demand Equal The Supply

In olden days the merchant, who oftentimes was also a manufacturer, went from house to house peddling his wares. Then times changed, and methods changed, and the itinerant merchant disappeared.

In his place came the merchant of today—the merchant who is a purchasing agent for his community.

As a purchasing agent the merchant buys as he believes the people in his community will buy from him. Sometimes his sales are many, at other times they are few. Always, however, his supply is equal to the demand. But the demand, unhappily all too often falls very, very far below the supply. Which means poor business.

Take your own case. You have, let us say, enough of the goods you handle to supply a goodly number of the people in Wainwright who require these goods. Do they demand these goods in such great quantities as to make your supply inadequate?

You need the advertising aid of the manufacturers whose goods you stock—urge their salesmen to recommend your local home newspaper

A COLUMN OF WIT & HUMOR

The customer complained of the cost of shaving. "You but have you considered the extra labor involved, sir," asked the barber.

"What extra labor snipped the irritated customer. "Well, sir," replied the barber, "what with bad weather and the income tax falling due, men's faces are considerably longer than they were."

"I've the hope of giving what you haven't got, that gives the nose to life."

"Baby—That girl over there shows distinction to her clothes."

"Why—You mean distinctly, don't you?"

Speaking of the poor old days, do you remember the old-fashioned girl who used to make ash receivers out of cigar boxes? Well, she now has a daughter who makes one out of the parlor.

"It was terrible," said Mrs. Murphy. "There were twenty—er, how many?"

"Indio," exclaimed Mrs. Grogan. The poor man.

"To keep your school girl complexion keep yourselves clean," is a famous doctor's advice to waitresses. We should have thought that would wash it off.

When a small boy refuses a second piece of pie you can bank on it that there is something either radically wrong with the pie or the boy.

"If you don't love Jane what ever made you get engaged to her?"

"I have been waiting England for twenty years," said the American, "but have never found the smart business man I have in New York."

The Englishman was vexed. "No," he replied, "you will find that sort in prison here."

Doctor—"Have there been any insanity in your family?"

Mrs. Hengst—"Yes, there has. you see it was like this, my husband once thought he was home, but I soon cured him of it."

The conference was over and the ladies were returning from seeing the visitors off.

"Whom did you have Mrs. Jones?" asked one hostess.

"Oh, quite a nice clergyman. Whom did you have?"

"I had two local preachers," replied the other.

"You mean local preachers. Locust are those things that come in swarms and eat everything up."

"That's right," said her friend. "I had two of them."

The Last Straw

The stout woman had been in the boot shop an hour, and the patient shop assistant had had half the stock down for her inspection.

"Those will suit you," he said as a last resource, taking down yet another pair. But still she was not satisfied.

"I don't like those," she said, "they have a tendency to get wider when they are a bit old."

"Well, madam," replied the exasperated assistant, "didn't you."

A Slight Mistake

The children had been learning a poem about fairies and gnomes, when the teacher asked, "Who knows what a gnome is?"

There was silence for a while when one little boy ventured an answer. "The place where you live with your father and mother, Mum."

REFRESHING EATS FOR THIS WEEK (BY BETTY BARCLAY)

SATISFYING SANDWICHES

Many women do not think of sugar in connection with sandwiches, yet a little touch of sugar furnishes some quick energy food of real value and goes a long way toward bringing out the real flavor of some of the other sandwich ingredients. Try the following and you will appreciate these facts:

Boston Sandwiches

Either left-over or canned baked beans can be used for a delicious filling for a hearty sandwich. Whole wheat and Boston brown bread are equally desirable.

Press 1 cup baked beans through a coarse sieve and add 1 tablespoon tomato catsup, 1/2 teaspoon onion juice, 1/2 teaspoon mixed mustard and 1/2 teaspoon sugar. Spread on buttered slices of bread and serve with crisp pickle.

Date Picnic Sandwich

The picnic lunch needs plenty of fruits. A few date sandwiches help to bolster this up, and furnish very delicious tidbits as well. Run half a cup of dates and half a cup of walnut meats through the food grinder using the coarse plate. Mix with one Philadelphia cream cheese and 1/2 teaspoon sugar. Spread on buttered slices of whole wheat bread.

CHOCOLATE PIE

2 sq. bitter chocolate
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cup flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup boiling water
1 cup evaporated milk
3 egg yolks
1 tablespoon butter
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
Baked pastry shell

Melt chocolate over hot water. Add sugar (that has been thoroughly mixed with flour and salt. Blend well. Add boiling water and milk. Cook in double boiler 25 minutes, stirring occasionally. Pour chocolate mixture gradually over well-beaten egg yolks beating vigorously to prevent curdling. Return to double boiler and cook 2 minutes longer. Add butter and flavoring, cool slightly and pour into cold baked pastry shell. Cover with meringue and brown to the preferred color in a slow oven.

COTTAGE CHEESE CUSTARD

1 cup cottage cheese
3/4 cup sugar
2/3 cup sweet milk
2 eggs
1 tablespoon melted butter
1/4 teaspoon salt

Beat the egg yolks, add the sugar and the milk, then mix cottage cheese, salt, butter and vanilla. Bake in custard cups set in a pan of hot water. In a slow oven, forty-five minutes.

Cool slightly and add meringue made by adding 2 tablespoons of sugar to the stiffly beaten whites of 2 eggs. Brown in oven.

STRAWBERRY ICE CREAM

1 junket tablet
1 tablespoon cold water
1 pint milk
1 cup sugar
1/2 pint cream

2 cups strawberry puree
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Crush junket tablets and dissolve in cold water. Add sugar to milk and war muntal lukewarm—not hot.

Remove from stove. Add dissolved junket tablet; pour into freezer can. Let stand until firm (about 10 minutes) pack in ice and salt, and freeze to a mush. Add 1/2 cup whipped strawberry puree and lemon juice. Pre pare parer by crushing about one quart of strawberries and rubbing them through a sieve adding sugar if necessary.

SLEEP FOR BABIES.

During the first few days of life, the baby sleeps practically all the time, excepting when he is being fed or bathed. The time spent in sleep gradually decreases and, at six months the baby sleeps about sixteen hours. He sleeps from 6 p. m. to 6 a. m. without interruption, excepting for his feeding at 10 p. m. He sleeps for two hours each morning and a little longer in the afternoon. At one year, he is sleeping for fourteen hours.

The afternoon rest should be continued until the child is five or six years of age.

The normal baby sleeps well. He must be properly fed and should sleep in fresh air if he is to rest quietly for long hours.

Restlessness and frequent wakings usually indicate improper feeding, or lack of fresh air, or bad training. The baby should not be played with before he is put to bed, nor should he be rocked, patted or sung to sleep.

The baby should always have his own bed, a lined clothes basket, does very well for this. The mattress should be firm and even, and covered with a rubber sheet, then quilted pad, and, over all, a cotton sheet. This provides a comfortable bed which can be kept clean. The amount of coverings required depends upon the temperature.

The baby should sleep out of doors during the daytime when the weather permits. A window should always be open in the room where baby sleeps because only in this way can be obtained the amount of fresh air which he needs. His bed can be placed so that he is not exposed to having a draught strike one part of his body.

The bed or basket should be covered with netting in summer in order to keep insects from reaching the baby during his sleep.

Regular hours for sleep are necessary. The child should always be put to bed at the same hour and left alone. If this is done, he will settle down to sleep as soon as he is put to bed.

Questions concerning Health, addressed to the Canadian Medical Association, 184 College St., Toronto, will be answered personally by letter.

CANADA GETS MOST BRITISH IMMIGRANTS

OTTAWA—According to a report which originates in the House of Commons, London, England, emigration to Canada has increased more than 25 per cent during the past four years, although emigration to the Dominions generally has shown a considerable falling off since 1926.

Hon. W. R. Smith, parliamentary secretary of the Board of Trade, in reply to question said emigration to Canada had increased year by year, namely from 49,632 in 1926 to 65,558 in 1929, while the Board of Trade figures showed the aggregate emigration to Canada, Australia and New Zealand had decreased from about 119,000 in 1926 to 94,000 in 1929.

The Colonial office also was questioned with regard to Dominion emigration. Dr. Drummond Shiels, parliamentary under-secretary gave the same figures as Mr. Smith for Dominion emigration, generally stating emigration to Canada showed an annual increase.

THE NEW BYLAWS

As will be seen from a perusal of the minutes of the last Council meeting as printed in another column of this issue, the Town Fathers are still working (and working hard) on the continued improvement of Wainwright.

To this end the Bylaws which are to be submitted to the burgesses on June 19th, will no doubt be read and studied with interest, although there should be little doubt as to their passing when the returning officer has summed up the result of the vote thereon. The proposition for the putting into first-class shape of the sidewalks of the town is one which seems almost an imperative demand and will likely be dealt with in such manner through the ballot box. Since the big fire which destroyed the water on our business streets this matter has needed attention, and in addition the inclusion of several other streets in the sidewalk programme under way is certainly a necessary part of our town improvement.

Regarding the bylaw for the increased lighting of Wainwright, this is truly a step forward. Such towns as Red Deer, Camrose, Vegreville, and others, all make their streets conspicuous to the travelling public, as well as a comfort to their own citizens by brilliantly lighted streets, and the inclusion in this programme of a large number of additional street lights for the residential areas of town in order that pedestrians during the dark months will have this additional advantage, should ensure the passing of the bylaw for so small a sum of money as this work is to entail.

The third bylaw, which is to provide for the completion of the fire-protection system, is one upon which the ratepayers can hardly hold a contentious point. The mains are laid, the hydrants installed, and all that now remains to give Wainwright one of the finest fire fighting units in Alberta is the installation of the machinery for which the bylaw is asking for passage by the burgesses.
Taken altogether, it would appear that the 1930 Town Council have again proven themselves alive to their responsibilities to the electorate and are doing all in their power to keep Wainwright in the very forefront of those places in the province which are referred to as "a bunch of live-wires!"

OUR POLICY

With the dates for both the provincial and Dominion elections having less than probably ninety days to run before the smoke of battle has been cleared away, a lively interest in politics is being displayed locally.

Primaries are being called and in a short time candidates for these honors will have been chosen. In both the Liberal and U. F. A. camps things are active, although so far as we have learned to date there has been no mention of a standard bearer for the Conservative party in this district.

In the past, unless something very unusual or important turns up, The Star will be independent in the matter, and will give all parties the best service possible with regard to their meetings.

Sick people, like sick persons, go under the surgeon's knife in a London hospital for damaged lives.

FACTS ARE STUBBORN THINGS

A. L. Bailey, well known publisher of weekly papers, decided about two months ago that the life of weekly newspaper publisher was not only a tough one, but that the venture was a losing game, ceased publishing his papers at Sedgewick, Killam and Dayland. Whether the rush and worry and whatnot, incidental to getting out a weekly paper has got so strong a toe-hold on his side that his system demanded it a stimulant, we do not know; but this week "The Community Press, covering the district from Dayland to Hardisty and Viking to Alliance" made its appearance, piloted by Mr. Bailey.

In his foreword the publisher said:
"I am convinced that the day of the weekly newspaper—that is, a small newspaper in every small town is past and gone. In a word if an editor is possessed of the capabilities and the mechanical equipment to produce a creditable newspaper in a small town, it will not pay him, and if he is not so equipped he cannot possibly make it pay, for any length of time."

Yes the weekly paper like other small business institutions as well as many large ones, is face to face with rapidly changing conditions, and the publisher of a paper or the owner of a mercantile establishment who think these changes are too temporary have a hard row to hoe. Reasonably well conducted weekly papers whose publishers place the gathering of local news before the securing of advertising, will continue to supply caries and coffee fairly consistently to owners. Local news boosts the subscription list and a good list brings advertising; the two cannot be separated. The by-law which publisher, who considers the town owes him a living regardless of the kind of paper he gets out, is, of course, due for a fast punch in the midriff, which will soon see him "Counted out!"

A NOVEL

SUGGESTION

A Lethbridge housewife, having received an urgent letter from a mail order house to avail herself of sundry of their bargains, takes the unique method of publishing a reply in the Lethbridge Herald. Her arguments are good and make a novel suggestion. She says:

"I would love to get some of your bargains but if I did I couldn't pay my grocery bills. Then the grocer couldn't pay my husband for the law and he won for him. And neither of these men could pay their taxes. The grocer says he has to carry people who haven't the ready cash, and if he can't pay the taxes, then there can't be the local improvements."

"I begin to wonder if mail order houses shouldn't take a share in paying taxes in the places where they do business. If I send you a large mail order, I am not doing my business with the man who helps support my church, the man who helps keep his home and street looking nice who contributes to concerts, who buys tickets that I sold in aid of this and that.

There are our local whistles and bazaars and dances and games. I never see you there but I do see our local merchants. Don't you think your firm should at least buy tickets for dances and things, and contribute to the church from whose members you get the most business? Don't you think you should pay some of our taxes? If the rest of us didn't pay taxes we wouldn't be here for you to do business with."

"I should like to introduce a motion at our next women's meeting that you should be asked to pay taxes in proportion to the business which you take from out of town. How about it?"

NEW VOTER'S LIST

WILL BE PREPARED

Alberta voters will operate on a new list which will be prepared for the provincial election on June 19, according to John D. Hunt, chief returning officer for the province.

There has been some doubt as to whether the 1926 list would be revised and used or whether advantage would be taken of municipal lists.

Now it has been made quite clear that an entirely new list will be made up.
When the rolls for the election are issued, following the proclamation by the Dominion government dissolving the legislature, the various returning officers will be appointed.
Enumerations will be appointed for each polling division of the province and it will be their duty to prepare a proper list of voters for their district. The lists will later on have to be kept up in conspicuous places visible on June 17, between 10 a. m. and 4 p. m. appeals to add or strike off names on the list may be made to the returning officers.

is the time to be your whole be known. If your sitting member has secured for you what you felt he would secure when you elected him to elect him. If he has helped reduce your living costs by encouraging a period of economy maybe he was right and did so in your interest. Look around your district. If you can see any of the things that have not been done that he promised he would do, send a new member to Edmonton who will live up to his word and make good his promises to the farmers and town people.

In any case now is inventory time. Check up. Demand honest representation in the Provincial House.

Have you stopped to think during the last few months what a tremendous job our province and its neighboring provinces Saskatchewan have taken upon themselves by the assuming of the contract of their natural resources? Or are you prepared to consider the transfer lightly and let come what may? The administration of our agricultural affairs can be more or less easily handled by men chosen to administer them from the rank and file of our farmers and agriculturally-minded men. The administration of our other Provincial business has been placed in the hands of men who have been trained over a period of years in the executive handling of telephones, railways, highways and other such affairs.

Now, are we going to allow these valuable resources to be handled by a politician with some "pull", taken from the ranks of job-seekers? The Government must contend with? The fiduciary resources of Alberta, according to conservative estimates of engineers, are worth billions of dollars. They belong to you, Mr and Mrs Alberta Voter. Now's the time to consider sending your member to the provincial house with definite instructions to demand that a sane and progressive policy of development be adopted towards our most precious resource to see that they will be handled by capable, experienced men in their administration.

With the development of Alberta's natural resources will come reduced taxation, increased population, better highways, better transportation and larger local markets.

As Dean Howes would say—"use these as pegs to hang your thoughts on"

BOY'S WORK BOARD

ARRANGE CAMP PROGRAM

The Alberta Boy's Work Board are already making preparations for their 1930 camping program. It is confidently expected that there will be in the neighborhood of fifteen district boys' camps in as many localities throughout the province. These camps present an opportunity for purposeful character building activities. On Trail Rangers and T.V. boys as well as those boys who come from Sunday School classes from the various denominations. Camp Tuxis, the provincial leadership training camp for older boys of 16 years of age or more, will be held from July 7-16 at Kasota Beach, Sylvan Lake. The leadership will be the best available. Plans for this camp are rapidly taking shape. Nine days in the outdoors at one of Alberta's beauty spots with all the varied activities of a broad camping program are assured for those who share in the fine fellowship of this camp.

Well-directed camps are being recognized as vital mediums in the educational process today. Conduct and ideals as well as information are found in the education gained through camping. It is hoped that in the near future all teen-age boys will be able to spend part of each summer in a well-directed, well-equipped boys' camp.

REDUCING DAMAGE

WHEATSTEM SAWFLY

We have been informed by Prof. Strickland of the university of Alberta that the wheatstem sawfly is likely to be prevalent in the eastern central part of the province during the coming summer. The area likely to be affected is bounded by a line commencing at Chauvin extending westward to Viking and Camrose; south to Drumheller; southeast to Brooks and east to Empress.

In this connection a pamphlet describing methods for reducing the risks of damage has been prepared and is obtainable free by addressing the department of agriculture at Edmonton, and our farmer readers will be wise to obtain a copy of this work without delay.

Records for past elections show that the coming appeal to the electors will cost the province in the neighborhood of $135,000, which makes allowance for the three new seats which will be filled this year. This expense will be provided for by special warrants to be issued whenever needed.

Comparative tables of the cost of the elections of 1921 and 1926 show a huge difference. In 1921 when the Liberal government of Alberta went to the country and met defeat, the total cost of the election, not including direct costs incurred by the government such as printing, was $217,255. In 1926 when Premier Brownlee took his government to the country the total cost was $131,183.

In Edmonton the total cost of the 1921 election is given as $18,139 while in 1926 it was cut to $9,919. In Calgary the 1921 appeal cost $12,268 which was cut to $7,876 in 1926.

GET MAD AND BEAT THIS!

Father got so mad at an editorial that he tore up the paper and upset his coffee, which so upset mother that she bawled him out, whereupon he gave her a piece of his mind in tones that scared sister into a screaming fit, provoking brother into idiotic snickers, which so enraged father that he slapped both children, kicked the cat, rushed off without an overcoat or a good-bye kiss to mother and slammed the door so hard that he knocked down the "God Bless Our Home." In his blind scramble to catch the train, he upset the parson's wife, which so humiliated him that he got into the local instead of the express, which got him to the office thirty-five minutes late which so infuriated the boss that he was promptly fired, which so sobered him up that he decided to get drunk and take a fresh start; but before he got started afresh he died of pneumonia.

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK

Charles C. Summer, editor of the Pontiac (Idaho) Tribune says: That there is no particular reason why a fellow should "stop to think" when he should think without stopping, though some fellows stop with out thinking.

But, the fellow who puts on the brakes without thinking is due for some sort of casualty, all depending of course, on his thinking or other activity. If an advertiser has just about put over his big idea and then lays down on it, he will some day awaken to the fact that no great American institutional scheme ever succeeded in that manner. If an individual is purposed enough to imagine his personal pulling power will create adequate salesmanship for any product—whether it be fertilizer sprayers or canned speeches—without contacting with all elements of the public, he has been smoking some thing that has a taint of coughs, or a touch of the common, commercially speaking, of course.

The fellow who gets away with his salesmanship without the least gesture at expense has reached that stage in this remarkable nation of ours where the gates are soon closed to him. The substantial public of today reads advertising more than it does publicity. The fervid articles about snappy movie stars and all that sort of hokum are passed up in a minute for the advertising pages displaying just what one may encounter at the favorite theatres anywhere. That is where the public works hand in hand with the producer and advertiser.

If there ever existed any kick in press agencying, it has faded out and the eye immediately turns to the legitimate and constructive much of which is false at times but the business man, the farmer or the artisan are fusing with the direct purpose of upbuilding communal establishments. Aside from personal experiences, no one knows more than he reads. The vast American commercial concerns are simply alive to the situation and are keeping in touch with a system of distribution along all lines that has inspired confidence and created business and employment. Half of the success of such institutions consists of acquainting the prospective buyer with the item he desires through legitimate and honest publicity and advertising. Doing the buying at home is always a fair enough idea, but the matter of buying, at least, is the fixed element for argument, and the newspaper would appear to be about the best middle agency provided in the business distribution.

"REMODEL YOUR HOME"

Today's most commendable fashion is the turning of old homes into new by thoughtful touches here and there. A writer recently claimed that sixteen million homes in the United States are nothing but "ugly boxes, built for shelter, without a moment's thought of beauty."

It would be difficult to get the owners of sixteen million homes to admit this, but for some reason or other, many of them are doing a great deal of remodeling. Apparently they are not all satisfied with the old order of things.

Houses are newly painted. Sun porches are being built. Flower boxes are making their appearance. Inside, bathrooms in colored tile, and hardwood floors in handsome and durable oak, are among the most popular improvements.

The old upholstery, worn floor, thoroughly out of keeping with modern standards, is doomed. Floors of oak, eliminate these annoyances, and as this wood lends itself to color and is admirably adapted to staining, mately may have a "weathered" finish in the living room; a dark grey in the dining room; a light forest green in the sun parlor, and lavender or some other delicate shade in the bedroom.

No! They are not all tearing out the old floors. The new one may be laid over the old—the carpenter using oak flooring and turning out just as sound and beautiful a job as though he were laying a new floor in a new home.

By Richard S. Bond

He thrust his thumbs in his vest, swelled out his chest impressively, and allowed his glance to sweep across a tiny plot of ground—a mass of greens, reds and golds. "Eighty hard-earned cents worth of seeds from a store around the corner, a job of real enjoyment in the open, some exercise I surely needed, and there you have it."

Extracting his right thumb from the well-worn vest, he waved his hand toward the peas, the corn and the other vegetables that had responded to his magic touch.

"Next week I'll give you some real corn. Green myself, don't forget it, neighbor. Today you eat tomatoes, radishes and lettuce from the little old two by four back yard. What do you think of that?"

Who is this magician? His name is Legion, a Prince of Good Fellows, and a member of the unorganized "International Association of Home Gardeners Incorporated," of which each member is President, Treasurer, Outer Guide, and by all means, the Supreme Janitor and Caretaker.

There is something in the Spring air that brings fatigue to all but the groups—lawyers, fishermen and home gardeners. These three exert themselves to answer a call so insistent that a simple thing like Spring fever remains unnoticed, if present.

And don't imagine for a moment, that the call of Spring to the home gardener is one whit less than that of the swishing wind to the fisherman or the careening breeze to the lawyer. There is a deep, dark call from Mother Earth that awakens his nostrils and starts the muscles of his spade arm twitching long before the first, earth worm has stuck his nose above the ground in search of a mate.

Once plant a seed and watch it grow and you are incurable. You may be forced into a city apartment where gardens of all kinds are out of the question, and there be compelled to grow a potted plant or two as a sacrifice upon the altar of memory. But somewhere else you will grow over the opportunity to till the soil.

You may have a real garden behind the garage. You may have a tiny plot at the rear of the house. You may have to be content with a box on the window ledge into which you occasionally deposit the proper soil and later a few lettuce or radish seed or two or three tomato plants.

Once a gardener, always a gardener, and it is surprising what results may be obtained from even the tiniest plot of ground. Ashes will break the sidewalk clay. Paper mulch will save a chapter upon the matter of aggressive weeds. The ever-obtainable seed catalogue will advise what to plant, how to plant it and how to care for it.

The army of home gardeners is studying on mass today. Each member of that army is searching for some variety that will mature earlier than other members of its immediate family, so that his product may be proudly exhibited a day or two before that of neighbor Jones or neighbor Brown.

There is a little work ahead of the home gardeners, but that work is needed exercise and a pleasure combined; there is the anticipation of crisp, fresh greens for the family; there is the knowledge that a leafy blooming, fruiting garden makes a far better impression upon waiting friends than an ash dump or a plot of weeds; and there is the ever-constant craving to be able to flaunt the first filled pea pod or the first ear of corn grown in the block.

Turn needs into vegetables this year! Old timers will do this thing out the asking, but may I suggest it to those who have never enjoyed the thrills it brings? There are a few seeds left in the little store around the corner. There is health to be gained as you caress Mother Earth with gloved hands or with bare in the little plot of ground at the rear.

Be a home gardener, no matter upon how small a scale. You will never regret it.
